

Golf Course Information

Mission Statement

To provide a public golf course on the Centennial Campus of North Carolina State University that will serve as a venue for men and women's varsity golf teams. To facilitate turf grass and storm water research associated with the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. The golf course will also serve as a teaching and training facility for the Professional Golf Management Program in the College of Natural Resources.

Course Overview

The Lonnie Poole Golf Course at North Carolina State University captured the imagination of players and press alike when it was announced on July 9, 2007. The stunning layout has been craftily sculpted by Arnold Palmer and his design team at Arnold Palmer Design Company. With the breathtaking views of the Raleigh Skyline and the Centennial Campus, the golf course is sure to become a favorite of all those in the golf community. The course is very playable for all skill levels and a challenge to good golfers, which include our own NC State University championship men and women's golf teams. Golfers looking to improve their game and simulate actual golf course play will benefit from the expansive driving range and practice green . The state of the art irrigation and drainage systems protect the turf from the elements. In addition, the facility will provide testing stations for the #1 Turgrass program in the United States (voted in 2007). The result of this golf course facility is worthy of one of the premier universities in the nation.
